

"We feel quite honored that they came back repeatedly," explained Mrs. Bailey, home economics teacher, referring to a group of professors and trainees from Missouri University's Home Economic Department. Members of the Modern Dance Club, assisted by male draftees, perform in the Talent Show held May 5. The dancers are (l. to r.) Mike Carmody, Donna Muschany, Andrea Brown, David Cloud, Libby Calhoun, and Ron Erb.

Assemblies highlight May

The annual Talent Show was presented by the high school students Tuesday, May 5. Music ranged from jazz numbers to classical piano tunes, with the Modern Dance Club performing their version of what happens when a teacher leaves the classroom and Mr. James Pierce, mathematics teacher, displaying his talent as a pianist. Mrs. Pierce, instrumental music instructor, played the violin in a duet with her husband. Mike Donovan was the master of ceremonies.

The A Capella Choir was featured in an assembly Tuesday, May 12.

Another assembly was given Thursday, May 21, when Antoinette Petri, soprano; William Harter, tenor; and Eugene Holmes, baritone performed numbers from such musicals as "My Fair Lady", "Milk and Honey", and "Sound of Music". Edwin McArthur, the musical director of the Municipal Opera, served as master of ceremonies and as piano accompanist.

Memorial guards honor servicemen

Memorial Day was recognized this year by placing a basket of white flowers before the memorial plaque in the lobby of the High School. A special guard of honor stood at the plaque in the lobby throughout the day, May 28.

The object of this special program is to pay tribute to those Webster students who lost their lives in World War I, World War II, or the Korean Conflict.

The guard was composed of ten seniors stationed for the interval between classes. Those students who served in this capacity were Ninette Knudsen, Susan Landwehr, Neal Losse, Bob Mabry, Guy Mellor, Sue Menke, John Stocke, Tom Stuber, Denny White, and Pat Wright.

School organizations finish season with banquet, initiations, elections

Tennyson's adage from Idylls of the King, "The old order changeth, yielding place to new," seems appropriate as school sponsored groups hold elections and activities. The seniors, who are gently routed out in the elections, jubilantly enter in the final activities of their school groups.

Programs end season

The Future Teachers of America visited primary and junior high schools this month to observe classes. The choir will celebrate "Colbry's," an annual get-together of choir members, alums, and parents the night before graduation. "Colbry's" is the traditional name which refers to a family in whose home the gatherings used to be held.

The orchestra closed the year with a program May 20 in the auditorium; the band will end its season by playing at the commencement ceremonies.

Both Spanish Club and French Club celebrated the end of the semester with picnics. The Latin Club held its annual banquet May 19. Following the banquet, many of the Latin classes presented skits.

Officers elected

In a recent election new band officers were chosen. They are Guy Gebhardt, president; Mickey Sears, vice-president; Cathy Davis, treasurer; and Jane Greenstreet, secretary.

The language clubs have been selecting their leaders for next year. Spanish Club officers include Liz Noah, president; Cricket Appel, vice-president; and Carol Metcalf, secretary-treasurer.

The new major officers of Latin Club are Jeff Schweitzer, president; James R. Brown, vice-president; Kathie Vining, recording secretary; and Carol Mortland, treasurer.

Parking area to replace playfield

"For a while, any ball hit out here was a homerun," commented a construction worker, "but now it's just a double."

"Out here" is the area north of Roberts Gym which will be a faculty parking lot by the beginning of school next year. Although the administration does not expect any major construction to be completed by fall, they hope that most of it will be fairly well along.

The new field across Selma will not be in use during the summer so grass seed will have a chance to grow, however the area will be ready for use by fall. If plans go as scheduled, the courts in back of the library will be filled in this summer and the library remodeling will begin.

The Thespians and Dramatics Club have incorporated to form one group, the name of which is to be determined by the newly elected officers. They are Judy Farago, president; Terry Davis, vice-president; Les Gruner, treasurer; Annette Dubrouillet, recording secretary; and Sue Tennesen, corresponding secretary.

The Future Nurses of America have held a picnic, club day, and election in May. The following juniors will head the group next year: Sharon Butler, president; Pat Williams, vice-president; and Pam Brummet, secretary. The Varsity Pep Club also held an election for new officers. The winning candidates are Ellen Winkler, president; Ruth Loveless, vice-president; Polly Gregory, secretary; Anne Harkey, treasurer; and Kathy Holsher, junior secretary. The appointed leaders for the new Varsity Club are Doug Lonergan and Harold Kalde. The Lettermen's Club will be headed by Jim Durham, Bob Bennett, John Willman, and John Dunkman.

High praise for Flamenco dancer

Susan Ruder demonstrates Flamenco dance she performed at Missouri U.

"You either feel the music or you don't. You've got to feel the beat of the music before you can dance to it," explained Susan Ruder, senior.

Susan is a Flamenco dancer and has performed for Spanish students at the University of Missouri in Student Participation Day and at various Red Cross shows around St. Louis. Referring to her performance at the university Susan said, "I think the greatest compliment I ever received was at Student Participation Day. Several Mexican girls had seen my dance and when I was finished, they came back and asked me if I was Spanish!"

Susan began studying ballet, tap dancing, and acrobatics when she was five years old, although she didn't become interested in Spanish dancing until last year.
